Proceedings

MS. LEARY: I call Case 19-G-0309 proceeding on motion of the Commission as to the rates, charges, rules, and regulations of The Brooklyn Union Gas Company d/b/a National Grid NY for gas service.

And Case 19-G-0310 proceeding on motion of the Commission as to the rates, charges, rules, and regulations of KeySpan Gas East Corp. d/b/a National Grid for gas service.

Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. My name is Maureen Leary, again. I'm an administrative law judge with the Department of Public Service. I am responsible for presiding over this public statement hearing.

I'd also like to introduce and welcome two of our commissioners who are here -- Commissioner Diane Burman and Commissioner Tracey Edwards.

Thank you for coming. Welcome.

This public statement hearing was publically noticed by the secretary on July 10, 2019 in a notice soliciting comments and announcing information sessions and public statement hearings.

Proceedings

This hearing is an opportunity for members of the public to comment on National Grid's rate filing in this matter. All statements give today will be transcribed by the young lady sitting to my left, your right. And they will be included in the official record of this proceeding and available to the Commission for their review. Please take the opportunity, if you would like, to provide the Commission with your views.

It is not a hearing that is an evidentiary hearing, however. There is no cross-examination. I'm not going to ask you any questions nor will anyone else. It is really your opportunity to make a statement.

If you have not completed a registration card, please do so. I will call out the speakers one by one to come up to the podium to provide their statement on the record. Please speak clearly and rather slowly for the court reporter so that your statement can be transcribed accurately. Speak into the microphone.

This is not the only opportunity for you to comment. You may also submit comments in writing to the secretary, by mail, or electronic mail, or by posting them to the Department's Matter and Management system, DMM, available on the dps.ny.gov website.

I have one speaker and I believe she is still here.

Ms. Gwen O'Shea, welcome.

MS. O'SHEA: Good afternoon.

Is it okay that it's not on?

Good afternoon. I appreciate the opportunity to comment before you today. My name, as you pointed out, is Gwen O'Shea.

I run an organization called the Community Development Corporation of Long Island here on Long Island. We serve Nassau, Suffolk, and Brooklyn Counties. And we work in the areas of community development, economic stability, and housing.

Proceedings

I'd like to share some comments today about our partnership, CDCLI's partnership with National Grid throughout communities here on Long Island and specifically the work that we do together in economic development. In particular through their Cinderella program National Grid has provided critical leadership, funding, and support to complete the very difficult to develop, multifamily developments that we do.

On Long Island, as you all know very well, housing is in a state of crisis mode, in particular for those that are most vulnerable and at risk. And the cost of meeting the needs in terms of developing new housing is some of the highest in the country.

The resources at National Grid are critical to not only help support those developments but also ensure that we're able to leverage additional public and private funding to bring those developments to fruition. In doing so we not only create housing for many who have gone without it -- safe, stable, sustainable housing -- but we also are able to incentivize and revitalize community development for the community as a whole.

Most recently the project that we worked on with National Grid is just almost walking distance from here. It is called County Crossing. It is 45 units of affordable, workforce housing with an artist floor on the first floor. That brings community development and really helps to create and succeed in creating the community's vision of art integration in the downtown area. It adds to the vibrancy and the livability and the overall economic impact of the community.

That's one example of the developments we've worked on. Others have included -- the most recent one we are working on and looking forward to getting a shovel in the ground for is in Hempstead, 228 units of workforce housing. But also recently, in the past two years, we've completed the Copiague Commons Development. Again, another obtainable, workforce housing development. Transit-orientated, 90 units of high quality housing that is leveraging other resources to create community development and revitalization in that community as well.

We're proud to partner with National Grid and appreciate the support of not only their tremendous team but the resources and expertise to address the needs of our communities here on Long Island. Thanks.

MS. LEARY: Thank you very much.

Since this is the only speaker we have this afternoon, we're going to go off the record. I will keep the hearing open for a period of one hour, until 3:00 in the event that anyone else comes. Thank you.

(Whereupon, a recess was taken at this time.)

MS. LEARY: We have some additional speakers.

Ms. Weber, are you ready to go?

MS. WEBER: Yes, ma'am.

Proceedings

MS. LEARY: Come on up. Welcome.

MS. WEBER: I apologize if I seem a little frazzled.

Can you hear me now?

MS. LEARY: Yes.

MS. WEBER: Tracey knows I'm pretty loud. I don't need this at all.

My name is Tawaun Weber. I'm the assistant director for Vision Long Island. We are a smart growth planning organization on Long Island. We work with communities from East Rockaway to Montauk.

I'm here representing us today for the eastern end of Long Island. I am a Suffolk County resident -- a new homeowner, by the way. I am very excited to be a part of National Grid's new family as a homeowner. That is part of the perspective that I'm going to speak on today as well as my role as assistant director.

We do understand that there are things going on on Long Island that cause economic distress to families. But there is also the reality that we do live on Long Island. That's like no other place in this country. There are certain expenses that come along with that and doing business on Long Island.

Proceedings

We understand that with the cost of National Grid being here and provided the services that they provide -- they are actually providing a benefit. It takes us away from a lot of the dirtier fossil fuels and things like that and starts to bring us into a new age. We need to make sure that we have investment in that.

As a homeowner, as a resident of Suffolk County you know that part of those costs you're going to incur as a resident to move forward in what you need as far as homeownership, as far as having clean fossil fuels, and moving forward in the future.

With that being said, we also want to note that there is a lot of different companies and different -- I'm sorry -- companies throughout the country that do provide services similar to this. But as far as what we've seen there is not very many like National Grid. They have been amazing community partners in everything they do. They are very much involved in the downtown. They reinvest in the communities with the funds that they do receive. They partner in downtown redevelopment, economic development, training programs. Simple things like our Long Island Youth Summit they've been a part of and training children and apprenticeship programs, partners and playgrounds. They've been a good community neighbor. So it's not like we're just paying into some company that's not involved in Long Island, they're reinvesting in us.

We need them as far as economic growth. You can't have certain things that are necessary to build economically if you're not going to invest in them. In our downtowns, you know, we need sewers, we need natural gas, you need these suppliers so that businesses and companies want to come and stay and that people want to come and stay. So we do understand that and we recognize that.

Proceedings

We want to say that as far as what's happening now, there are a lot of projects that are coming up on Long Island that are going to be doing a lot of mixed used, a lot of transit-oriented development. They are going to need National Grid's services. There is no way -- there is just simply no way we can build without it.

This is almost to a point where Eric sends me to be the one that, kind of, says duh, we need to do this. But it really is the reality of it. There is nothing out there right now -- yes, we'd like to move away from these types of fuels but right now this is the best solution we have. It's really, honestly the best solution that we have. We have to work within our limitations.

As we try to move forward, they're moving forward with us. They are not trying to make this an end-all but they are a company that does need to reinvest. They've big community partners. They are out there educating the community on everything they are doing. Any changes in rates, any changes in programs they are there.

They are very responsive. Like I said, even as a new homeowner myself, very responsive as far as an individual. And even on our end as far as the large developers we work with, they are very responsive.

They are out there in the community. They are hiring local. They are working towards economic development. They are in every program they can be in. They are constantly looking to better themselves and educate themselves. And they are a good community neighbor and partner.

We need to show that same reinvestment in them. And we need to understand that we need them to grow.

I think that is basically the main things I wanted to cover. Like I said, there's just no other -- right now it's cheaper than oil and there is no other green energy alternative. We are really just -- this is where we are. This is the reality of it. And if we have a partner like National Grid that's willing to work with us, that's willing to come in and stay with us as expensive as things are on Long Island they are here, they are helping, they are reinvesting. We need to work with them too.

I think that's pretty much everything I had to cover.

MS. LEARY: Thank you. Thank you very much.

Neela --

MS. LOCKEL: Lockel.

MS. LEARY: Lockel. Okay. I'm just not that good at this.

MS. LOCKEL: I should have given you my maiden name to say.

Good afternoon. My name is Neela Lockel. I'm the CEO of the American Red Cross here on Long Island. I have a copy of the letter that I'm going to read for you. I can give that to you now or afterwards.

The American Red Cross is committed to helping communities prepare for, respond to, and recover from disasters ranging from house fires to blizzards and hurricanes. National Grid has been a vital partner in this endeavor by supporting many of the programs and services we offer in New York and across the nation.

This includes preparing communities through out home fire campaign, support to ensure key training of disaster volunteers, providing supplies such as a new vehicle, and participating in community awareness and education efforts.

National Grid has actively supported our work to prepare communities on Long Island. Recently, they joined us to raise awareness around the importance of hurricane preparedness for Long Island residents. Like the Red Cross, National Grid has a strong commitment to the new communities it serves. And many of their employees have also dedicated their time and energy to us personally become involved with the Red Cross mission as volunteers.

Consistently for the last three years, employees from the Power to Serve employee group helped to ensure hundreds of Long Island residents received working smoke alarms and critical preparedness information as part of our national Sound the Alarm campaign.

In times of large-scale disasters, such as Super Storm Sandy, National Grid consistently supported our efforts across the region as both a donor and in partnership through material and logistical support as well as providing situational awareness and updates to the families we are caring for. After the storm, National Grid has stood with the Red Cross to build community resiliency through emergency preparedness programs offered to the public and helped us recruit and train volunteers.

Every eight minutes, the American Red Cross responds to an emergency in the United States. It could be a house fire, power outage, or a large disaster like a hurricane or tornado. In these events, the Red Cross provides shelter, food, health and mental health services to help families and entire communities in their greatest moment of need, helping them recover and move forward.

We are grateful to count National Grid as partners in our efforts and for their continues support and commitment to the Red Cross mission. Thank you.

MS. LEARY: Thank you very much.

I have will make sure it gets into the record.

We are, again, going to go off the record. We'll still be here until 3:00 if any further speakers want to present, we welcome those. Thanks.

(Whereupon, a recess was taken at this time.)

MS. LEARY: We are back on the record. We have not had any additional speakers in attendance.

We are going to close the record in this proceeding. It is now just after 3:00. Thank you.

(Time Noted: 3:05 p.m.)
